

BAC board favors election change

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A poll of Belleville Area College Board members shows the majority favors a proposed redistricting plan being petitioned for by citizens seeking its inclusion on the Nov. 8 ballot.

If voted on and approved by the public, the plan would call for electing one college trustee from each of seven geographic subdistricts. The procedure would alter the present situation in which the Belleville area dominates the multi-county district's board.

Trustees Elizabeth Jenner and

Dan Wolford said they oppose the plan.

Jenner said she didn't support the proposal before the November 1987 board election and she will not support it now.

"It is unfortunate the impression is being given that Granite City is being treated unfairly," she said. "Vast amounts of money have gone into Granite City and I see no reason for this petition."

BAC operates campuses at Belleville, Granite City and Red Bud, and has extension centers.

Wolford said he had no problem with what the petitioners

Charged with arson

GRANITE CITY — A Granite City man was charged with aggravated arson following an apartment building fire Feb. 16 at 11:30 p.m.

Shannon Todd Biggs, 20, 1736A Cleveland Blvd., was charged Feb. 17 in connection with a fire at 1736/1738 Cleveland Clubb, 29, 1736A Cleveland Blvd. The fire destroyed one apartment and damaged another, authorities said.

Police responding to the fire were called on to investigate a fight between Biggs and Delma Clubb, 29, 1736A Cleveland Blvd. Although both said nothing was wrong, neighbors alleged Biggs had threatened to burn down the building.

Police found Biggs was wanted on a Madison County warrant for failure to appear on a disorderly conduct charge. A scuffle started when police attempted to arrest Biggs and he sustained a cut on his forehead. Biggs was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center to be treated enroute to the police station.

In addition to the arson charge, he was booked for disorderly conduct. Biggs pleaded innocent to both charges Feb. 18. Bond was set at $3,000.

Teen couple found dead

GRANITE CITY — The bodies of two local teen-agers were found in a parked car at Horseshoe Lake on Layton Road at 9 a.m. Thursday.

Richard S. Uhls Matyas, 19, 1900 block of Third Street, East Madison, and Diane M. Sampson, 15, 1733 Edison Ave., were found fully clothed in the back seat of Matyas' car, which was parked in the lot of a building on Layton Road. Family members had been trying to locate the two victims since they failed to return home late Wednesday night.

Matyas was employed by Encom Contract Cleaning as a maintenance man and Sampson was a sophomore student at Granite City High School.

Autopsies were performed at the request of the Madison County Coroner's Office, which released a preliminary finding of death from carbon monoxide poisoning, probably accidental. Baahman said the results of additional toxicology tests are expected to confirm this finding.

An inquest is scheduled to be held at the County Courthouse in Edwardsville in early March. Authorities were alerted Thursday after a friend who had been searching for Matyas found them in the parked car. Family members had been trying to locate the two victims since they failed to return home late Wednesday night.

Matyas was employed by Encom Contract Cleaning as a maintenance man and Sampson was a sophomore student at Granite City High School.

Special Service Area proposed in Pontoon

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

PONTON BEACH — A public hearing prior to establishing a Special Service Area for the Timberlake area will take place at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 22, at the Village Hall.

The service area proposal calls for the construction and installation of sanitary sewers, storm drains, water mains, pump stations, streets, sidewalks and fire hydrants.

Basic development work on the 64-acre property is proposed through issuance of $2 million in Special Service Area bonds, proceeds of which would be used to pay part of the cost of construction and installation of the project.

The bonds are to be retired over a 20-year period by levying a direct tax on all taxable real estate property within the Timberlake area, which is zoned commercial and residential. An interest rate on the bonds not to exceed 13 percent a year is proposed.

The Special Service Area is to be owned, operated and maintained by the village, by Madison County, or by the Pontoon Beach Water District or Illinois-

American Water Co., officials said. None of the project will constitute private property.

Trustees approved the ordinance proposing the Special Service Area and setting the hearing date at their Feb. 9 meeting. Trustee Loren Madison cast the only vote against the plan.

A Tax Increment Finance District also has been proposed for Timberlake Subdivision, a 50-acre tract within the Special Service Area, to aid in its redevelopment. A public hearing must be held prior to establishing a TIF district.

The Timberlake property is on the west side of Illinois 111 and north of the Church of the Nazarene in the 4700 block of the highway.

SGB Development Co., owned by Richard and Helen Buenger, is proposing to develop the residential area.

The Buengers, who are in the process of buying the Timberlake Subdivision property from First Granite City National Bank, asked for creation of a TIF district.

The remaining commercialized property in the Special Service Area proposal also is owned by the bank.

Simon now getting more contributions

By David Rocks
P-R/J Washington Bureau

MANCHESTER, N.H. — Sen. Paul Simon, resting from his third-place finish in the New Hampshire Democratic primary, said Wednesday he must win in South Dakota or Minnesota on Feb. 23 if he is to continue his campaign.

But 12 hours he had changed this stand, commenting, "Frankly, we have had enough responses from around the nation now that we're going to have to re-evaluate that."

Simon finished with 17 percent of the vote, behind Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, who won with 36 percent, and Missouri Rep. Richard Gephardt, second with 20 percent.

"The returns are not what we had hoped for," Simon said. He and Gephardt had been locked in a battle for second place, with the loser of that battle widely considered to be out of the running for the nomination.

But Simon vowed not to quit, saying, "The reality is there are three candidates who will emerge from this primary with approximately the same number of total delegates (counting all states that have chosen delegates)."

"The name of the game, ultimately, is delegates, so we go on to Minnesota."

The other four candidates, none of whom immediately announced they would quit the race, finished as follows: the Rev. Jesse Jackson, 8 percent; Tennessee Sen. Albert Gore, 7 percent; former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt, 5 percent; and former Colorado Sen. Gary Hart, 4 percent.

Babbitt withdrew from the competition on Thursday. Hart said Thursday he would remain active but on a still more limited basis.

Gephardt said his second-place finish proves that his message of anti-establishment change is a viable national campaign strategy.

"The critics said that what I said in Iowa wouldn't work in New Hampshire, but we found out that New Hampshire thinks this is your fight, too," Gephardt said, echoing his campaign slogan.

Simon's press secretary Terry Michael said the loss was not devastating to the campaign, but conceded that Simon needs badly to win somewhere before the March 8 Super Tuesday contests.

Simon will concentrate his efforts on South Dakota and Minnesota, Michael said.

"We feel that we're in good shape in both states," Michael said. But he added Simon will have a difficult time beating Dukakis there.

"He's really been pumping away hard in South Dakota and Minnesota," he said.

For his part, Gephardt will also concentrate on the two states, campaign spokeswoman Hollis Friedman said.

With the third-place finish, after placing second in Iowa, Simon may have some trouble raising the money necessary to carry on. His campaign is already $500,000 in debt, but Michael said there is enough cash on hand to pay for the North Dakota and Minnesota efforts.

Simon raised about $250,000 in the week after his second-place finish in Iowa and expected to take in another $300,000 to $400,000 last week, Michael said.

In the end, Simon may have been hurt by his aggressive advertising campaign that attacked Gephardt for changing his position on issues such as nuclear power, Social Security and weapons systems.

Many voters interviewed said the ads raised some questions about Gephardt, but that they also raised just as many about Simon.

"I wondered about saying something about somebody else," said a Manchester woman who voted for Gephardt.

"Talking about somebody else — what about yourself?" "I won't vote for Simon because he's a mudslinger," said another.

"I liked what he had to say, but I don't like someone who's going to sling mud."

Other voters had less studied reasons for choosing their candidate, however.

"I voted for Simon because that's my maiden name," said one Manchester woman. She added quickly, "And he seems like a decent guy."

Controversial article reviewed for fairness

A Press-Record article published Feb. 10 generated two emotion-filled letters from leaders in the black community.

The article, written by David Gossnell, a reporter for the Press-Record who has since taken a job with the Edwardsville Intelligencer, followed standard reporting guidelines.

Gossnell's article dealt with a member of the Jesse Jackson campaign. The man, Rick Russo, is white, from Edwardsville, and favors Pete Fields for Congress. Russo said a rally in Venice was advertised as being for Jesse Jackson, but featured only discussions by and for 21st Congressional District candidate Jerry Costello.

Gossnell also contacted Madison County Board Member Don Garrett, who organized the rally, and Dave Wagner, Costello's campaign manager. Though Russo was "out-numbered" two-to-one in the article, Gossnell also tried to contact a third Costello and Jackson supporter, the Rev. John Henry Williams, but could not reach Williams.

The story was headlined, "Jackson delegate says Venice voters 'used' by Costello."

Russo's term was "used," as reported. Russo said he thought the rally was for Jackson. A flier for the event promotes a rally and prominently displays Jackson's name, but does not directly say the rally is for Jackson. The flier states the rally is for Costello, contrary to what Russo had stated.

Russo is quoted in the article as saying Venice voters were used by Costello. Balancing his remarks were those sought from Garrett and Wagner. In the article, Garrett states the rally was for Jackson and Costello, and that Costello would be a good choice for black voters. Wagner states the event was not set up by Costello.

As we have allowed others on many other issues, the newspaper allowed Russo, a Jackson supporter, to present his views about a Jacksonian event and balanced those comments to be fair — with comments from Garrett and Wagner.

The newspaper is accused of being racist.

Frankly, the matter was not viewed by the newspaper as a racial issue. Russo is white. Fields is white. Costello is white. Wagner is white. Garrett is black. Williams is black.

Jackson is rainbow colored, as we all should be.

Lake flirting with disaster

By Prof. Henry Firsching
SUE SCHOOL OF SCIENCES

Mono Lake is one of the oldest and most unusual lakes in the United States. It measures 69 square miles in a desert area near the California and Nevada border. Water flows into Mono Lake, but there is no outlet.

The salinity of this lake is about 2 1/2 times that of the ocean. There are no fish in the lake because there is no outlet. The high salt content. But three forms of life — algae, brine flies and brine shrimp — flourish in the lake. These simple organisms support a community of birds that number in the tens of thousands.

The birds are mostly gulls and phalaropes. They use the lake as a nesting site and as a rest area during migrations. The lake is an otherwise desolate area.

Unfortunately, the city of Los Angeles has been drawing water for several decades from the streams that feed the lake, and has caused the lake level to drop 27 feet. The loss of water is creating problems for Mono Lake.

One of the beautiful and fragile features of Mono Lake is the tufa formations. Now these formations are still islands. But if the lake level drops another 10 to 20 feet, they will no longer be islands. It will then become possible for people to walk out to these formations: Human vandalism will probably ruin these picturesque features.

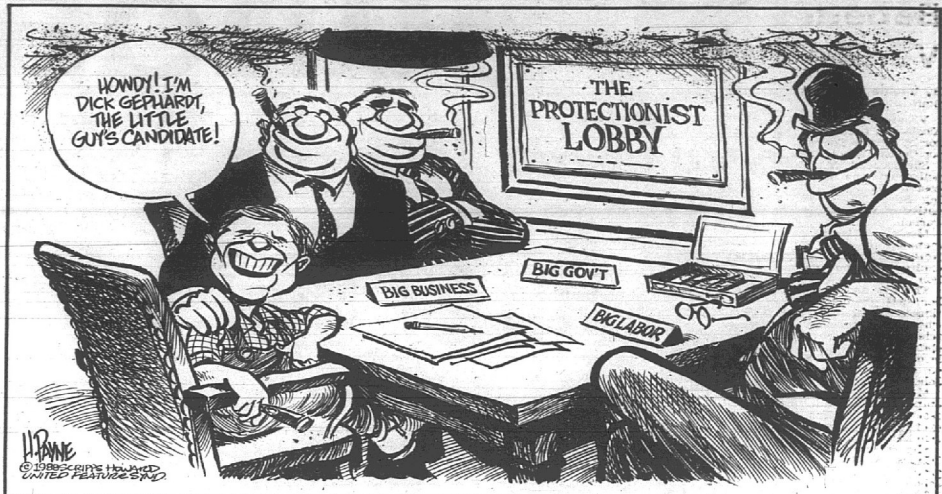

But new problems to these islands and 4-footed predators now are unable to raid the nests. Once these areas are accessible by land, however, the nests will no longer be safe.

Further loss in the lake level also will present problems to life in the water. The increased salinity resulting from the drop will bring about a halt in the reproduction cycle of brine flies and brine shrimp. This will actively cut off the biological basis for life in the lake. There will be no food for the birds.

The lake now is at a critical stage. Life on the lake has tolerated a 37-foot drop in lake levels, but an additional 10 to 20 feet will be too much. The lake will die.

This situation is creating tensions in California. About 15 percent of the water supply of Los Angeles comes from the streams that feed Mono Lake. But the impending ecological disaster that faces this desert region is intolerable.

The city of Los Angeles must find water elsewhere. Preserving the wildlife of this unique lake is of greater concern than supplying Los Angeles with part of its water.

Thinks reporting indicates newspaper racially biased

To the editor:

In reference to your front page "news" article concerning a delegate's criticism of the endorsement of Jerry Costello by the Jesse Jackson for President Committee: I've never seen before outside of a Ku Klux Klan sheet.

The article attempts to show that a white person from the Edwardsville area is more capable of deciding who is the best congressional representative for the Venice-Madison black community than eight outstanding black community leaders who have served those communities with dignity and dedication for years, and each of whom is a minister, political officeholder or longtime community activist.

If it was meant to destroy the Jesse Jackson campaign in the Venice-Madison area, it did not. It rolls on, stronger than ever.

If it was written to destroy the credibility of the committee, it did not. We shall persevere.

If it accomplished anything, it served only to contribute to the image in the black community that your newspaper has become decidedly racist in its basic format.

It seemed clearly to be the case of a white news reporter, a white delegate and a white newspaper combining to dictate to the black community what its politics should be.

Ironically, the Committee to elect Jesse Jackson President was formed to counteract this very kind of thing.

The dedicated black founders of this committee felt that it was time for black people to take the destinies of their community into their own hands and make their own decisions about who and what is best for their community.

The members of the Jesse Jackson Committee feel that if blacks are ever going to enjoy the "Great American Dream," they must first control the institutions that affect them. We know that lack of political control of our community has been the biggest stumbling block to our progress. It is locally elected officials who have the most effect on our lives, and yet they do the least for us. That is because we have been told for years, by some person or group outside of this community, for whom we should vote. No more!

Like other communities, we formed our own screening committee, and selected our own candidates to support. We made our own decisions about who is best for our community.

We are not bothered by the fact that some individual from Edwardsville was "upset" that we did not do things

"his" way.

Before we are through there will be a lot of "upset" people who unable to deal with the fact that blacks in the Madison-Venice area are taking their destinies into their own hands and making their "own" decisions.

We recognize that it is your newspaper and you have a right to print what you please, about anything you please. We do think that it was hardly "news" that a supporter of Pete Fields would be upset when someone else supports Jerry Costello, and certainly it was not front page news.

We are confident also, that when you read the enclosed handbill which advertised the affair we gave for Mr. Costello, you will see how inaccurate the criticisms are. However, we still feel that it is your newspaper and you have a right to make "news" as you see it, and print what you so desire.

We do ask only in the interest of fair journalism that you print our responses to the article, and give coverage to the photo and information concerning the Jesse Jackson Committee that accompanies this letter.

In reference to the headline which accuses Mr. Costello of "using" Blacks, the enclosed handbill will clearly show that we invited Mr. Costello to speak to us. Since he was there at our invitation, your headline does not do him justice.

We find Mr. Costello to be a gentleman of impeccable character and fine reputation, testified to by our black neighbors and friends, which is the reason we support him for Congress, along with his ability to get things done and to keep his promises.

We rejected the candidacy of Pete Fields on good solid ground. I will gladly enumerate those reasons in another letter to the editor next week, since I may be taking up too much of your valuable space with this letter.

One final word before I close. The individual who criticized us and whose criticism you placed in a front page story, has gone back to Edwardsville, probably never to appear here again, and has probably forgotten West Madison and Venice.

We, the responsible and dedicated members of the Jackson campaign, will be here tomorrow and for the rest of our lives to back up what we say and do today — because we love our friends, neighbors, relatives and our community. Thank you for the use of your column.

Chairman,
Jesse Jackson Committee

Objects to Jackson delegate's story; in forgiving mood

To the editor:

Thank God for America and our Constitutional rights for freedom of speech. On Thursday, Feb. 11, 1988, I bought a Granite City Press-Record like I always do and, on the front page (the headline stated), "Jackson delegate says Venice voters used by Costello." The story was written by your staff writer, Mr. Dave Gossnell.

First, we are angry but yet we are forgiving and we still love Rick Russo and the Press-Record. But the truth must be told.

There were accusations made by Russo claiming to be a delegate for the Illinois campaign for the Rev. Jesse Jackson. I, the Rev. John H. Williams, am a member of the volunteer committee to elect Rev. Jackson, for president, in the Venice and Madison area, the same as I was in 1984.

The first thing I want Mr. Russo and the Press-Record and any other outsiders who claim to be interested in the welfare of the Venice and Madison area (to know is) our committee doesn't have to explain anything to anybody but our black people in our area.

No one got angry with Mr. Russo for being for Pete Fields.

Since blacks have decided to think and do things for the best interest of our people, all of a sudden it seems like we have done something wrong. I care less about Mr. Russo's complaints and have always respected the Press-Record. You have a great staff, but you should make sure you get the facts first.

Number one, the rally was not on Sunday, but on Saturday, Feb. 6, 1988, at p.m.

Number two, Mr. Russo said the flier on the door said "Jesse Jackson Rally" when he got there. Mr. Russo, wrong again. The flier said plainly and clearly, "Rally, Rally. Run Jesse Run, The Jesse Jackson Committee of Madison-Venice presents a Jerry Costello Rally."

I believe in the truth and it should be printed instead of lies. It is no secret that our committee is 100 percent for Jerry Costello.

This is the second rally; the first one was in December 1987. No one said anything, but who cares? We as black people are not going to allow people to dictate to us who to support.

I brought in an announcement about the rally to the Press-Record and to this day I have not read it in the paper. How can this white man say that blacks have been deceived? The only reason that he's on the Jackson ticket is to get black votes and to encourage them to vote for Fields.

He is using Jackson's name as a delegate. Where was he four years ago? Why now?

Mr. Russo is trying to get a free ride in the black communities. The black people in Venice and Madison can vote for whomever they please, and we don't need an outsider to tell us.

We live in the Venice area. We know the white people that are willing to help our blacks in the Madison and Venice area.

We took Mr. Russo in as a friend. We didn't know him, but since he claimed to be a delegate for Jesse Jackson, we treated him like a friend and brother. We introduced him, clapped for him, and this is the thanks our committee gets — a stab in the back by a person that we were planning on supporting.

It is amazing how the black people in Venice have hit the front page again. Something negative again. Our good news seems to be inside or close to the end of your paper.

If it was written, where is the article about our black hero, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., that I gave in January 1988? We blacks love to honor our great black leader.

We know that not all black people in the Venice and Madison area are going to listen or follow us. But one thing for sure is they are all not going to believe this deceiving article made by Mr. Russo's accusation.

We, as black people in Venice and Madison, have every right to screen and endorse candidates that are going to benefit the black cause for our people.

The Democratic and Republican parties endorse candidates, unions endorse candidates, what is wrong with blacks doing it? It was no secret about the rally. It was open to the public.

As far as I am concerned, God bless Russo, but his free ride is over with my people, that I know.

You have encouraged me to work much harder for Jesse Jackson and Mr. Costello and other candidates that we are supporting. Our committee is not trying to be popular with the press or some outsider that is putting on a fake concern with the blacks in the Venice and Madison area.

The committee is doing things that are best for our people. We will support any candidate black or white that is concerned with our cause to help our people.

Remember, (readers,) the Jackson committee is one of you, and after the election we still will live in Madison or Venice. We still will continue to help you when there is a need. We care for you when there is no election; we suffer together and we are going to move up together.

Don't be misled by that article of Mr. Russo's. To the Press-Record, we will continue to inform our people concerning the truth. We are not going to let the pharaoh oppress us or tell us what to do. We are not in Egypt but in Madison and Venice.

Run Jesse, run. Black brothers and sisters, run to the polls on March 15 and vote for the Rev. Jackson, Costello and other candidates that we support.

Babette Mosby named Venice town assessor

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

VENICE — Babette (Giles) Mosby has been appointed assessor by Venice Township Supervisor Christ Paschoff.

She succeeds Margaret J. Reidelberger, who held the elective post for 14 years before resigning Sept. 30. Reidelberger, a native of Venice, moved to Glen Carbon.

Mosby will serve by appointment for the final 18 months of Reidelberger's term, which expires with the April 1989 election.

The new assessor is a December 1984 graduate of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, where she received a bachelor of science degree in career development and an associate degree in data processing. She graduated in 1980 from Madison High School.

Mosby, 25, was previously employed as administrative assistant to the Venice Park District manager and also was park district secretary.

She is married to Raymond "Chuck" Mosby, a coach and 5th grade teacher at Venice Grade School.

They and their daughter, Ternee, 3, reside at 1000 Logan Ave., Venice.

At some future time, Mosby

hopes to see township assessment records transferred to a computer system for greater efficiency, she said last week. The township does not have a computer system at this time.

Fannie Fisk, office manager, and Lenora Lockett, clerk-typist, both longtime employees of the township, assist Mosby at the assessor's office, located at 422 Madison Ave., Madison.

Office hours are from 9 a.m. until noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, Mosby said.

Exhibit at SEMC shows 'very special' art works

By Deborah Reinhardt
Staff affiliate

On the surface, The Very Special Arts Festival at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville looks like little more than a group of children simply having fun. Although there is no shortage of fun at the event, the festival for handicapped children also is teaching participants that the arts are for everyone to enjoy.

One concrete result is a traveling arts exhibit on display today and Monday in the lobby of St. Elizabeth Medical Center. The display features drawings made by children from Venice and surrounding areas during the festival. The display will go to SIUE for the 10th Very Special Arts Festival March 3 and 4.

"Being handicapped doesn't mean you can't be in the arts," said Tonya Dee Restrepo, program director at SIUE. "That's an important part of our program."

During the festival, hundreds of children between ages 3 and 17 from school districts in Madison, Macoupin and St. Clair counties will come to SIUE to participate in dance, music, visual art and literary art projects. The festival will educate handicapped and non-handicapped children through the arts.

The Very Special Arts Festival started as a one-day event in 1977 at SIUE. One festival was missed along the way when the program was switched from the fall to spring semester.

Through the years, the program has expanded to two days. It receives funding from the university and the national Very Special Arts program.

During the two days at the university, children make art projects in the Meridian Ballroom, enjoy entertainment in the Goshen Lounge and learn different artistic expressions by meeting with festival consultants. These private consultations last 30 minutes, Restrepo said. The festival's hours are from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. each day.

"That's one of the biggest things we wish we could change, the time limit," Restrepo said. "Some of the children are (at the festival) just two hours. Even the consultants say that's not enough time."

Evaluations, however, prove children retain much of the new information from the private consultations, Restrepo added.

Restrepo works with a core of teachers from Illinois school districts and community volunteers. The festival begins to take shape in July and the momentum starts building as soon as the school year starts, she said.

Children also work on art projects in their classrooms with their teachers before the Very Special Arts Festival. Restrepo has hopes that the Very Special Arts Festival can continue to grow.

"We'd like to expand to reach the adult population," she said.

Republican Women review projects

At the January meeting of the Granite City Republican Women's Club, Americanism Chairman Leona Bell led the opening ceremonies.

Gladya Pape, secretary, read the minutes and gave the treasurer's report.

Members were told it was time to pay dues, and they were told to send 1988 dues to President Vernice Walter.

Walter gave her annual report for 1987. She said club community services projects included books that were given to the library through the Mamie Eisenhower Book Project, with Elma Hoover, chairman; afghans donated to Hospice, with Louise Thompson, chairman; and a $100 donation given to the Granite City War Memorial Fund.

Day celebration will be held March 11. The Madison County Federation of Republican Women meeting date has been changed to Feb. 22. The local club will host the federation's annual meeting April 18.

Because February is sometimes called the "Month of Presidents," the Feb. 27 meeting will honor club presidents who have served the NFRW up to its 50th anniversary year, to be celebrated March 23 through 28.

Hoover, who works with the AARP Tax Aides Program, gave members some tips on income tax filing and answered questions. She told members assistance is available from 1 to 4 p.m. Tuesday and Friday at the Moose Lodge.

Members were reminded that the March 15 primary is important for selecting candidates and for voting on many other issues.

Pape won the early bird prize.

Student councilors resign

GRANITE CITY — Eight Student Council members, including the president, voluntarily resigned Thursday at the high school.

Superintendent Gilbert Walmsley declined comment Thursday about an unconfirmed report that the resignations involved an activity for area high school Student Council members held Feb. 10 at Collinsville High School.

According to a student who asked not to be identified, snow was falling Feb. 10 when a car driven by one of the council members became stuck. The students returned to Collinsville High School and teachers there told Principal Ronald Ganschini of a perceived problem.

Ganschini passed on the information to Granite City School District 9 officials; the eight students resigned.

Rail renovation aids Port, Army

TRI-CITY PORT — A $70,000 railroad track rehabilitation assistance grant has been awarded to the Tri-City Regional Port District from the Illinois Department of Transportation, Bureau of Railroads.

The grant will be used to renovate and repair the U.S. Army and Port District track which serves the port's Warehouse/Distribution Center and the district's adjoining 30-acre industrial Transportation Park.

The area is located within the Granite City Army installation, known as the St. Louis Area Support Center.

"The IDOT rail program is designed and implemented to facilitate continued use of rail freight service in Illinois," said Mari Travis, IDOT's railroad bureau chief.

"Creating job opportunities and leveraging private-sector investment to benefit Illinois citizens — which the Port District project does — is why our program has been so successful." The Port District Board of Commissioners at its Feb. 8 meeting selected the firm of L&S Trackwork Inc. to carry out the renovation work.

L&S Trackwork, at $65,000, was low bidder on the project among the five firms submitting bids.

The track renovation is scheduled to be completed prior to May 15.

Rail improvements will be carried out along a 6,900-foot section of track extending from the main line of Terminal Railroad Association track in West Granite City southwesterly through SLASC to the Port District's 120,000-square-foot Warehouse/Distribution Center.

Terminal Railroad will provide rail service not only to the district bution center itself, but subsequently to various industrial firms to be located in the Port District industrial park.

The rehabilitated track also will be available for use by the Army in serving SLASC operations south of the port's industrial center.

Richard B. Kearns, president of The Delivery Network, operator of the port's warehouse center, said, "Safe and efficient rail service to the center will permit full economic utilization of the facility and help assure long-term employment of the 20 workers expected to be employed there."

Bob Wydra, general manager of the Port District, said at the meeting that "the rail renovation will significantly contribute to approval and successful operation and expansion of Foreign Trade Zone 31 to the distribution facility."

"The key to the success of this effort," Wydra said, "was active participation and cooperation between federal, state and local governmental leaders and agencies — not just for the rail renovation but the overall development of the excess federal property at SLASC."

"U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon, State Sen. Sam Vadalabene and State Rep. Sam Wolf, along with Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagauer and Mayors Tyrone Echols of Venice, Von Dee Cruse of Granite City and John Bellecof of Madison, all played a significant role in the success of the entire project."

"Combining our efforts and making best use of our physical and economic resources, as we and the U.S. Army have been doing on this project, is a must as we work together to rebuild our economy."

Paper plane may be vehicle to new auto

By Wm. Scott Simon

In a month or so, many people likely will be out in warmer weather flying kites as spring approaches. But Sunday, folks will be flying paper airplanes in Kiel Auditorium, hoping to win a 1988 Ford GT Escort from County Ford in The Great Paper Plane Championship. The event is sponsored by the Suburban Journals and KIX Radio (FM-104).

Planes must be fashioned from the completed entry form published in the Journals.

Anyone lucky enough to fly a paper airplane from the balcony of the auditorium through the sunroof of the car parked in the middle of the floor between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. today will have a chance to win.

If only one person is successful, that person wins the car. If more than one person accomplishes the feat, a "fly-off" will be held at 3 p.m.

William Madden, manager of Kiel Auditorium, said entrances on 14th and 15th streets will be open to the public for the competition.

"All the people have to do is to come in and take any of the ramps all the way to the top; then they can enter the auditorium at any entrance," Madden said. "People will be able to fly their plane from selected points from the balcony."

There also will be selected target areas on the floor. Anyone flying a paper airplane in those targets will win a T-shirt, mug or Frisbee, courtesy of Grandpa's discount department stores.

Madden expects a lot of people and a lot of planes.

"I don't know how long it will take to clean up when it is over," he said. "We will have our usual number of event personnel — seven clean-up people, eight directors and a couple of police officers to assist people and answer questions."

"It certainly will be different than anything we've seen at Kiel in a long time," he said.

Women of Achievement nominations still sought

Women Of Achievement Nominations still sought

Costello plans Madison County office if elected

GRANITE CITY — Jerry Costello, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 21st District, used the opening of his Madison County campaign headquarters here to announce his plans, if elected, to open a permanent Madison County office.

The proposed office would be "staffed by Madison County people," he said Feb. 15 in a setting of balloons, bunting and banners. The candidate is St. Clair County Board chairman.

At the same time, Nelson Hagauer, Granite City Township supervisor and chairman of the Madison County Board, announced his endorsement of Costello. Hagauer cited first-hand knowledge of Costello's ability to "get things done" as the reason for his endorsement.

State Farm to open office

State Farm Insurance Co. will open a new office at Illinois 162 and Illinois 159 in Maryville. The office will serve Granite City residents.

A groundbreaking will occur Feb. 26, William Frazier, a State Farm agent in Granite City, said Tuesday.

'She's Having a Baby' labors for direction

Costner goes from Ness to suspense in new video

SHE'S HAVING A BABY — A new comedy by John Hughes, with Kevin Bacon as a young man terrified of marriage and the attendant adult responsibility, Elizabeth McGovern is his wife and together they face a bumper crop of marital woes: career crises, credit card crunch, suburban homes, noisy neighbors and, worst of all, boses-in-laws.

Rated PG-13. (Language, sexual suggestiveness.)
Harry Hamm
"She's Having a Baby" (1 1/2 stars) was due to be released during the summer of 1987, but the film was held back for re-editing and rescheduling. After seeing the new version, it makes me wonder if the earlier edition could have been any worse.

The problems are many, the most prominent being the film's lack of consistency. As written, produced and directed by John Hughes, "She's Having a Baby" rolls along in constant search of an identity. It is sometimes a comedy, sometimes a shallow pot of emotional unrest in suburbia, sometimes a social statement, but all the time a thoroughly confused (and confusing) little project.

Kevin Bacon as the troubled young yuppie husband represents nothing but an immature, spoiled kid who grew up to become an immature, spoiled young adult, so concerned with chasing happiness that he fails to see it standing right in front of him. Elizabeth McGovern as his wife does what the script calls for, a whiny self-obsessed young lady who becomes an expert on fertilization, but has difficulty balancing the checkbook. The fact that McGovern is so effective is a tribute to her acting skills. Unfortunately, the concept and realization of her character is totally unappealing.

"She's Having a Baby" features Bacon narrating some portions of the film in a voice best designed to announce what time a bus is arriving. This is supposed to be a comeback film for Bacon, who has not appeared in a successful motion picture since "Footloose" in 1984.

There are only two funny scenes in "She's Having a Baby": a totally ridiculous choreographed dance number featuring neighbors prancing around while cutting their lawns. It is a scene of personal dramatic producer David Merrick could love. I do not recommend "She's Having a Baby."

John Hughes' new comedy, "She's Having a Baby" (3 stars) is generally amusing and occasionally tinged with wry observations, further evidence that Hollywood is in the family way. It is not too badly written and directed, either, more than a little bit pregnant with contemporary humor aimed at baby-boom generation yuppies and revolving around the serious business of marriage, procreation, birthing and parenting. The film finds newlywed Jake Briggs (Kevin Bacon of "Diner" and "Animal House") scared silly at the prospect of wedlock and the attendant adult responsibilities.

Elizabeth McGovern, who befriended troubled Timothy Hutton in "Ordinary People," is Jake's pragmatic wife, Kristy. They are a likable young team as they tilt with the terrors of young adulthood, meddling in-laws, job fitters, credit card crunch, and the rigors of running and paying for an overpriced house in the suburbs where everyone else lives at the same time on Saturday.

This is not great art by any means, but Bacon and McGovern are bright, appealing performers and Hughes' script and direction, augmented by Bacon's deadpan narration, provide a concise funny-serious look at the internal and external fears plaguing many young men.

Ex-Chicagoan Hughes filmed his picture in Chicago, with suburban Skokie serving as the setting for Jake and Kristy's home. Local residents played extras, and other nearby locales include Winnetka, Ill., and the rustic Glencoe railroad station across the street from the home Hughes once occupied when he was commuting to work at a Chicago ad agency.

The supporting players are solid. Television's Alec Baldwin plays Jake's best friend, restless of his marriage; William Windom is Kristy's sarcastic father; Kathryn Damon is her mother; and James Ray and Holland Taylor.

SHOOT TO KILL — Sidney Poitier plays a street smart special FBI agent who chases a cold-blooded killer to the remote mountain area of the Pacific Northwest with the help of trail guide Tom Berenger and his girlfriend who winds up being held hostage.

Rated R. (Language, violence.)
Harry Hamm
It is good to see Sidney Poitier back in front of the cameras. "Shoot To Kill" (3 stars) is not the type of personal dramatic film that allows Poitier to show off his concentrated, poetic acting abilities in his finest light. There is enough of the old Poitier magic present in this motion picture, however, to make it satisfying if not completely what you expect.

Poitier is forceful as the big city FBI agent whose work takes him out of his natural urban element. The cinematography of "Shoot To Kill" was in the capable hands of Michael Chapman, who does a breathtaking job of capturing the enormous scope of the mountainous beauty of the Northwest, where the latter part of the story is set. In fact, the pictorials begin to compete with the movie's inner elements. Unfortunately, too much of the time photography triumphs over acting and story. Tom Berenger as the rugged, independent backwoods hero is very convincing. It is a role so naturally handled by Berenger it makes you wonder if that is what he is like in real life. Shelly Long's replacement on the television series "Cheers," Kirstie Alley, is a beautiful compliment to the film as the captive of a cold-blooded killer on the loose in the wild country.

I've seen some of the television ads for "Shoot To Kill" that have run prior to its opening. I am afraid they paint the prospect of a better film than really exists. "Shoot To Kill" has plenty of action, some very high-level scares and some wonderfully successful bits of comic relief between Berenger and Poitier. But the formula script and wide-open vista of the cinematography militate against the elements of conflict and tension that are needed to make the film its best.

Frank Hunter
Sidney Poitier is a year away from drawing full Social Security but you'd never know it to look at him. There must be something about living in California that keeps a man in shape, looking younger than his years and going off in all sorts of new directions. Just look at President Ronald Reagan.

Poitier is back on the screen in a nippy new thriller, "Shoot

To Kill" (3 1/2 stars), in which the actor performs many of his own stunts without even looking like he's breathing hard.

Poitier is an FBI detective whose entire career has been spent in big cities. When he finds himself chasing a vicious killer into the Pacific Northwest high country, he hires Tom Berenger, an expert but acerbic trail guide whose girlfriend (Kirstie Alley) is being held hostage by the lunatic.

The man has brutally slain several city slickers she escorted on one of those three-day outings that desk-bound executives submit themselves to hoping to rediscover the joys of mountain flora and the fauna that have come from beneath the snow.

The chase is risky and street-savvy Poitier discovers that surviving in the wilderness requires more than a warm jacket and a sturdy pair of hiking shoes. It is a drama with some riveting action sequences charged with tension as directed by Roger Spottiswoode.

In addition to the cunning madman with a volatile disposition and a great big gun, there are grizzly bears and other wild beasts to fend off, plus high winds followed by gigantic snow drifts above the tree line.

But when the chase moves into town, Poitier is back on his own turf and mountain man Berenger finds himself awestricken at the rigors of police work.

"Shoot To Kill" is generally engaging and even funny despite the heavy theatrics as Poitier and Berenger come to know and respect each other during the perilous quest.

By Nick and Eileen Pacino
Video reviews

Kevin Costner of "Untouchables" fame boosts his already rocketing career with the taut suspense film, "No Way Out." He proved he could hold his own with established stars in the role of Elliot Ness. This time, he plays Navy Lt. Commander Tom Farrell, who is assigned to help Secretary of State David Price (Gene Hackman) uncover a security breach in the Pentagon.

Farrell becomes involved with Price's voluptuous mistress Susan (Sean Young), whose accidental death is covered up by Price's gun-ho assistant Scott Pritchard (Will Patton). Pritchard believes Price is "an extraordinary genius for whom normal rules don't apply."

Farrell is drawn into the death throes of this powerful, because he knows who Susan's killer is. His life is put on the line as an ever-constricting ring of circumstantial evidence linking him to Susan tightens while he frantically tries to find the one piece of concrete evidence that will nail the killer.

Newcomer Patton almost eclipses Costner in his white heat portrayal of Pritchard's psychotic loyalty to Price, and the surprise ending will have you scratching your head. HBO Video, rated R for violence, language, sexual situations, color, 114 mins., VHS/Beta.

"Ernie Kovacs: Between the Laughter," a made-for-television drama, is the dramatization of a lesser-known part of the great comedian's life, his struggle to lead a normal family life with his children in the face of the threatening behavior of his former wife. Jeff Goldblum is a believable Kovacs when he recreates some of the comic innovator's zanier skits for his live television show of the early 1950s. He also shows convincing strength when portraying the emotional torment the comedian suffered during the two years he searched for his kidnapped children.

Trojans box Wooden Shoes with Leonard's late basket

By Gary King
Staff writer

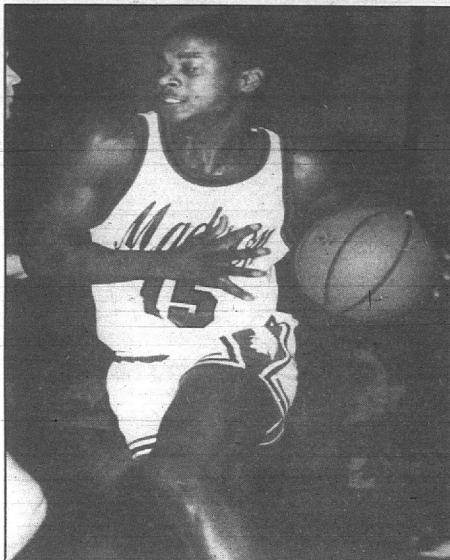

MADISON — Welcome to a Tale of Confusion, starring two good basketball teams and a win that couldn't make up its mind who it belonged to.

For the Trojans, the beginning of Friday's tale read like Rocky script, with Madison subscribing to the strike-first-strike-fast-no-mercy theory against the Teutopolis Wooden Shoes, a legitimate heavyweight in the realm of Illinois Class A basketball.

In the game's first four minutes, the Trojans launched everything shy of nuclear weaponry as the Wooden Shoes quickly found themselves on the receiving end of Madison's offensive abuse.

In contrast to the opening act, the second half of Friday's tale read like a Stephen King novel from the Trojans' perspective as the Wooden Shoes stepped on Madison's defense to take a 13-point lead into the tale's final act.

And by the time the curtain had fallen on the epilogue, Teutopolis was still looking for the license plate number of the truck that spun through the fourth quarter and left the Wooden Shoes on the wayside of a 72-70 defeat thanks to Jessie Leonard's layup with four seconds left.

When the issue was finally decided, the Trojans were the victors and Teutopolis was the victim. Oh, and the license plate number of the truck that did the most damage to the Teutopolis defense was 421, Madison guard Clarence Williams.

Williams, one of the premier three-point shooters in the area, hit everything but the lottery Friday as the senior drilled 31 points on five three-pointers to lead a multi-potent Madison offensive effort. In all, four of the Trojans' starting five placed in double figures.

The win was just what the doctor ordered for the Trojans' team morale, but not for the nerves of coach Rich Essington.

"You've just got to say that this is an awful gummy bunch," Essington said. "They just don't know when to quit. They just keep right on coming. They just play the game with an incredible amount of intensity."

Wooden Shoes coach Ken Crawford called the game a "first."

"This is the first time in the years I've been at Teutopolis that we've just out-and-out blown a 15-point lead," Crawford said. "Madison is a real nice club and they're about as quick a team as we've seen this year."

"It was a great game, and Madison really maintained their poise great down the stretch," Crawford said. "When we were playing bad, they made us look really bad. But we played well in the fourth quarter and we ran them down."

With the win, Madison raised its record to 10-6 on the year. Teutopolis fell to 20-5 with the loss.

"This was a great win for us tonight," Essington said. "Most people didn't think we could win 18 ballgames, but now I think we're in a position to win a couple more than that."

chance to escape with a win, but Leonard interrupted the opportunity by stealing a pass and driving in for a layup with four seconds on the clock. The basket accounted for Leonard's only points of the game.

"Teutopolis is as good a team as we've played this year," Essington said. "When we were playing bad, they made us look really bad. But we played well in the fourth quarter and we ran them down."

Davis bumped in 1st round as area wrestlers struggle

CHAMPAIGN — Thursday was not exactly a good day for area wrestlers at the Illinois state tournament — so Granite City's Brent Davis was hardly alone.

Of the 20 wrestlers from the metro east who qualified for the tournament, only Roxana's Chad Hamilton survived the first day. The Shells' 145-pounder won three matches to advance to the semifinals, where he was pinned at 1:58 by Tom Huginin of Romeoville on Friday.

Davis, the Granite City Sectional champion at 112 pounds, got a preliminary-round bye but was beaten in the first round by Steve McDonnell of Moline on an 8-5 decision. Davis trailed 7-0 before rallying. But it was a little, too late. He finished his junior season with a 37-4 record.

"I didn't wrestle until the last quarter and he got five points," coach Mike Garland said. "You have to wrestle for six minutes up here."

All of Cahokia's individual wrestlers except 105-pounder

Abby Myers were eliminated from competition on Thursday. Myers made it to the quarterfinal wrestling matches scheduled for Saturday.

The Comanches' Joe Harris (98 pounds), Shawn Brown (112) and Lance Taylor (126) all lost their opening matches and Carlos Raigans (119) won one. East St. Louis Lincoln's Anthony Graham (119) forfeited his opening match when he failed to make weight. Mascoutah's Jason Bennett, a heavyweight who went to state unbeaten, lost 5-3 to Oak Forest's John Dolan.

John Churchill (145) of Belleville West, Trevon Williams (98) of Edwardsville and Kris Armstrong (155) of Belleville Althoff were the only other area wrestlers to win at least one match. The Cahokia team lost in the team quarterfinals 37-12 to DeKalb (28-0) and ranked third in the state.

The Comanches gained a quick 9-0 lead before Raigans, who was about to pin his opponent, was reversed and planned to swing the pendulum one way. Cahokia got only one other decision.

Warriors finally end losing skid

13 was the Warriors' lucky number.

Their losing streak reached that magical figure last weekend, but it ended right there on Friday as Matt Cook poured in 26 points to lead Granite City to a 73-55 win over Edwardsville (8-13) at Memorial Gymnasium.

Kevin Sanders added 18 points as the Warriors gained their first win since Dec. 18 and gave Don Detering his 401st career victory.

The Warriors were 4-18 leading into Saturday's home game with East St. Louis. Most of that game will appear in Wednesday's Journal.

In other action around the area on Friday, the Collinsville Kahoks wrapped up their 36th Southwestern Conference title with a 53-47 win at Belleville West. The Kahoks are 9-0 in league play and 20-2 overall. And in one of the biggest upsets of the year, Cahokia (2-17) topped Belleville Althoff (21-2), 59-52.

Devils win despite Mason's 31 points

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

VENICE Steve Mason might want to rewrite Thomas Wolfe's famous saying. You can't go home again — but you won't necessarily win.

Mason, a Venice native who grew up playing basketball on the courts at Eagle Park, returned home for a little shooting exhibition in front of the home folks. The Alton Marquette guard had 31 points, but the Red Devils proved to be too much for Mason and his Explorer teammates as they closed the regular season with a 74-58 win.

Actually, it's a good thing Mason and Explorer center Jody Blasingin made the trip or Marquette might not have made a dent in the scoreboard. With Blasingin's 22 points, he and Mason combined for 53 of Marquette's 59 points.

"It's a lot easier to defend a team that only has two players scoring," said Red Devil coach Clinton Harris. "We didn't want to give anybody any points. But Mason's a good player. I wish he was playing for us. We wouldn't have any problem making it back to Champaign if he was on our team."

Mason is an outstanding player, although he forced up six shots. He made 11 of 25 from the field and added nine of 10 from the free-throw line.

But the Devils got typical big son keying the run. Venice shot 59 percent (18 of 31) in the first half as they carried a 36-23 lead to the locker room.

Jackson poured it on in the third quarter as the 6-5 junior center had eight points while the Devils extended their lead to as much as 52-30. It was 54-38 after three quarters, but Marquette came back behind the free throws of Mason to trim the margin to 10 points on three occasions. But then the Devils scored nine straight points, as Turner made a basket and three free throws in the streak.

It was the last home game for the Red Devils seniors — Turner, Carlos Briggs, Willie Hollis, Wiley, Tyrone Treadway, John Williams and Johnny Lyons — and they went out in typical style. The Devils lost only one home game in their four years.

The end of the game signalled the end of one season and the beginning of another.

"The fireworks start next week," said Harris.

Post-season play is a whole new season and all the good work of the regular season could be washed away with one bad night.

"We have to be ready for anybody," Harris said. "I can't be thinking about Madison (a possible opponent in the regional title game on Friday), because somebody else might beat us before then. We will need leadership from our seniors because they went through it last year. We just have to play together, not commit turnovers and make our free throws."

The Devils will likely get Lebanon in Wednesday's opener. They have beaten the Greyhounds six times in the past two years.

"We'll just have to play like we haven't beaten them before," Harris said. "You can't take anything for granted or you will go home early."

Stars clinch winning season

The Granite City Campus Stars assured themselves of a winning regular season with a 101-86 win at Lincoln Land (Springfield) College on Thursday.

Darwin Montana, averaging 21 points per game, poured in 29 points to pace the Stars (16-12). Madison's Charles Cagget was next with 25 while Robbie Carter, James Gordon and Aaron Martin were also in double figures.

GCC had three regular-season games left — starting with Saturday's home game with Floris-son Valley at 2 p.m. — before opening regional play Feb. 27 at John Logan College. The Stars are now 9-0 in games in which they score at least 100 points and 8-12 when they do not.

GCC has road games at Lake-Land (Mattoon) on Tuesday and Kaskaskia (Centralia) on Thursday to close the regular season.

Lancers win sectional crown

High-jump champion Reflays Williams helped spring the Belleville East Lancers to within one game of the Illinois girls Class AA state tournament on Thursday.

Williams scored 24 points as the Lancers topped Edwardsville 57-47 in the Cahokia Sectional final. Belleville East, 23-3 and ranked third in the Journal poll, outscored the Tigers, who finished at 24-5 and second in the poll, 13-2 down the stretch. The Lancers trailed 45-44 but just over five minutes left before starting the rally.

The Lancers trailed 15-9 after one quarter and 28-23 at half-time, but they outscored Edwardsville 19-12 in the third quarter to take a 42-40 lead.

Jodie Richardson, averaging more than 20 points per game for the Lancers, was held to six points. But Sunle Becherer complemented Williams with 13 points. Amy Nelson had 17 points, nine assists and five steals for the Tigers, but they scored only seven points in the final quarter.

East moves on to the Collinsville Super-Sectional. They will face Mattoon (24-1) at Fletcher Gymnasium at 7 p.m. on Tuesday. The winner advances to a state tournament in Champaign next weekend.
